New senior unit opens

First GC complex in 20 years

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

The first senior rental complex to be built in Granite City in 20 years opened Tuesday.

On Tuesday, Lance Callis and the HOME Foundation of Granite City, Inc., opened the new Vintage Gardens Apartments at 24th and Adams streets. They were joined by various city, county and state officials, individuals and organizations who helped with the senior housing complex.

The 26-unit senior development includes 18 one-bedroom and eight two-bedroom units. Construction began in May on the project. Already, 50 percent of the units have been leased.

"It was a long and arduous effort. We have to thank Lance Callis for his energy and persistence to stay with this program, as well as all the other people involved," said Mayor Ron Saph.

"As I said when we broke ground for this building, this is a cooperative (See COMPLEX, Page 6A)

Election exposes dissent

Residents cheer, boo decisions

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

An otherwise peaceful reaffirmation and transfer of power during a special Madison County Board meeting demonstrated that even with one-party rule, strong dissent exists.

Inside the packed board chamber on Monday morning, county residents watched, cheered and booed as members re-elected Rudy Papa to a third term as chairman, elected Jack Frandsen of Alhambra, a 27-year member of the board, as the new county auditor, chose Alan Dunatan as vice chairman of the board and swore in the new members.

Arguments over who should succeed Fred Bathon as auditor were played out in the media over the past two weeks. Bathon had harshly criticized Papa's leading choice for the post, Frandsen, but Papa, in a strongly spoken speech, defended the long-time board member.

"This is truly a function of the county board. This has nothing to do with anyone else," Papa said. "This is an internal matter."

"No officeholder who will tell this county board who their auditor will be," he said. Neither special interest groups, who called Papa and other members to give an opinion, nor should the media "sell" the board on who the next auditor should be.

That said, he praised Frandsen as being highly qualified to be auditor and would bring integrity to the post.

"This person is fiscally responsible ... and exhibits excellent managerial skills," he said. "There's been a lot of things said about who people think I will nominate this morning. They (See BOARD, Page 5A)

Scammers out and about

Be wary of them, says Madison sheriff

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

"This season to be wary. Shopping by telephone is very convenient — especially for the elderly — but along with that convenience comes the possibility of telemarketing fraud," said Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich.

"Every year, an estimated $40 billion is obtained illegally through U.S. telemarketing operations," Churchich said. "And according to a survey by the American Association of Retired Persons, more than half of all victims are over the age of 50."

"Often times, telemarketers are the only people who call the elderly," he said. "And since they have a tendency to be extremely lonely, they are even more vulnerable targets for scam artists."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that more than 14,000 illegal operations taking advantage of U.S. citizens are reported each year.

They also point out that the majority of victims do not realize a fraudulent telemarketer's actions to be a crime.

"It's important to consider the possibility that the nice, pleasant person they are talking with on the phone may be trying to steal their life savings," Churchich said.

Suggestions for dealing with telemarketers include:

- It is illegal to seek payment for sweepstakes or prize offers.

- Don't allow telemarketers to pressure you into making a decision.

- Request written information about the product or service being offered.

- Profits should never be guaranteed.

- If the caller is seeking a charitable donation, request the percentage

OPINION

Giving to charity makes a difference

But many people don't think about helping

By Mary Buettner

When this time of year rolls around, I'm reminded of something I'm not very good at: Giving to charities.

I know all the excuses:

"I'm busy and I forgot to write the check."

"I work for myself and don't know what my annual income will be, so it's hard to know how much to donate."

"The small amount I can afford to give won't make any difference."

"I refuse to give to the charity my employer trips to strong-arm me into donating to."

"Some charities are disreputable and the people who need the money won't get it."

I've resolved to do better in 1999. Here are some of the methods I'm considering:

"Each year brings new acquaintances and new challenges. And a renewed sense of community and family, I suspect, as well...It's not hard to find people in need...I believe that any gift, whether of time or money...no matter how small, will make a difference."

Two of my former classmates, who are now married to each other, approximate at the beginning of the year how much they'll donate, based on their anticipated annual income. They then give that amount to various charities.

If their income is more or less than expected, they can make adjustments at the end of the year. When they've given the full amount, they can then end telephone solicitations quickly and in good conscience by explaining that they've completed their donations for the year.

Another former classmate uses a different method — each year at Christmastime, she and her rather large family (including parents, siblings, nieces, nephews, etc.) choose a local family that needs help and then set about doing whatever that family needs.

Each year brings new acquaintances and new challenges. And a renewed sense of community and family, I suspect, as well.

My sister helps to support a child in a Third World country. She's done this for years on her part-time teacher's salary. I found out about this only recently and it's added to my realization that I need to do better.

It's not hard to find people in need. My husband's employer donates used computers to a St. Louis homeless shelter. I went with him once and stayed by the car while he unloaded the computers.

While there, I overheard a conversation between a woman who was looking for something to eat and a man who was residing at the shelter. The man explained the shelter had stopped serving food for the evening, but she could walk over to Rev. Larry Rice's place and "get a sandwich there anytime." He gave her detailed directions and she was off.

I decided at that moment to donate money to Rice's shelter. While I don't agree with many of his ideas, I can't think of a better charity to support than one that will give a sandwich to a hungry person, no matter what time of the day or night he or she appears.

I trust that when I put "for food" in the memo area of my check, it will be spent for food and nothing else.

I suppose we each need to find a type and level of giving we're comfortable with. If you're like me, and your local family isn't large enough to do justice for another family at Christmas and you don't have neighbors you can join with, you might join with some friends to support a family.

If money is tight, charities happily accept donations of time. I believe that any gift, whether of time, money, food, clothes or other items, no matter how small, will make a difference.

What goes around, comes around

Just ask Rush Limbaugh, Dr. Laura for some proof

Carol Clarkin

Coincidence? Probably, but during the past week, it's made something of an impression on me, and though there's been a lot more earthshaking news, made me glad I read the small items in the morning paper as well as the headline stories.

A little over a week ago, before my daughter returned home from a two-week visit with me, we had dinner with a long-time friend and, as is usually the case, conversation ranged rather widely, one subject leading into another.

Thus, while he was describing a History Channel show he'd viewed recently, the subject being a well-known and well-heeled evangelist, the topic led us into the byways, first of others of his profession. Particularly those who use radio to spread their message, and from that, we jumped into the subject of broadcasts that annoy us.

On a personal level, a lot of it annoys me, but at least locally, I've liked that problem. I keep my car radio set on WSIE, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's jazz station, which features a wide range of styles of the genre, interspersed with brief news-and-weather reports.

The problem, of course, is that on long trips, the station fades out and I'm at the mercy of what's popular listening in foreign parts. I mentioned this and the fact that I've found, on several recent trips through parts of Dixie, that, assuming I tire of country-western (a safe assumption), I'm doomed to listening to either Rush Limbaugh or Dr. Laura Schlesinger, neither of whom I can stand. In some areas, changing stations is useless; they're so popular in those parts, there's no escape.

I'd guess that from time to time, most folks have caught Rush on the air and you either love him or despise him. In my case, it's the latter, and I'm in wholehearted accord with one nationally syndicated columnist who calls him the "Lying Bully" and considers him to be Bubba's guru.

Dr. Laura is something else. As soon as I mentioned the two names, Chris agreed completely, but Ted who, of course was familiar with Rush, had never heard of Dr. Laura and we had to enlighten him.

I have no idea whether Dr. Laura is actually a doctor or a psychiatrist, which appears to be her field of expertise. From my view, she's a know-it-all when it comes to any variation of human problems you could possibly name. Rude, impatient with the suckers who phone her, a self-appointed, irritating "expert."

To my great surprise, after explaining her program and personality, Chris informed us that a few days before she came up for a visit, her husband had informed her at breakfast one morning that he'd just caught Dr. Laura on the web.

In the altogether. Her birthday suit. Nude.

Barry, who doesn't shock easily, said he found the sight somewhat shocking, adding that the pictures must have been taken some time ago.

I found this hard to believe, especially in view of my mental picture of Dr. Laura, who I've always thought of as looking a lot like Dr. Ruth, but I was wrong.

A day later, the morning news confirmed Barry's description, with details of how a former lover (the photographer) had sold the pictures and the Dr. Laura was seeking to sue. It couldn't happen to a more deserving gal.

The same day, news also covered the fact that Rush had lost something like 80 pounds, which he can easily spare. A slimmer Rush will still hold no appeal for me, and I suppose there's nothing to be done about closing his mouth.

As for Dr. Laura's appearance on the web, the confirmation made my day. Maybe what goes around really does come around.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Right decision must be made

To the Editor:

More than two years ago, the community of Mitchell's right to vote was taken away by the Madison County Board, along with Judge Randall Bono's endorsement of same.

This, of course, under pressure from the city officials for Granite City, Edwardsville and Pontoon Beach and anyone else standing to gain from the sacrifice of Mitchell.

This past August, the Madison County Board voted in favor of Mitchell's right to vote. On Dec. 17, Judge Randall Bono will have the same opportunity to do what's right.

Letting the people decide their own destiny is what founded our country. With all of the historical background that Mitchell has given to this state, it is imperative that the grassroots, American traditional values of this community, be saved.

The onslaught and sacrificial movement of Mitchell's neighbors has to stop. Enough is enough.

I challenge the mayors of Granite City, Edwardsville, Pontoon Beach and anyone else involved to an open public debate concerning the Mitchell movement. I can justify what the Mitchell movement is about, and what it stands for. Can you back up your decisions?

In addition, may the right decision be made, and American values restored.

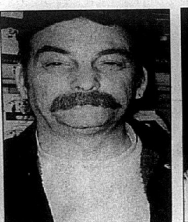

Robert T. Staicoff Mitchell

Animal wasn't what she expected

Captured 'cat' at rural home turns out to be 'sweet' pot-bellied pig

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

For more than an hour late last Wednesday night, Linda Waltmann repeatedly quieted her dogs at her remote Belleville home.

Law enforcement internships open

The Madison County Sheriff's Department is one of many participating agencies in Belleville Area College's Administration of Justice internship program.

Internships are one of the best ways to learn about law enforcement.

The AJOJ program offers a two-year associate in applied science degree or a one-year certificate in Administration of Justice, which prepares students for careers at all levels of criminal justice.

Students are allowed to visit the real world of law enforcement through AJOJ's internship program. Though it's an elective course, when a student chooses to enroll as an intern he or she betters the odds of being hired, according to Har- old Johnson, the program coordinator.

Not only does interning add value to a student's education, it also provides a screening opportunity for law enforcement agencies.

For more information, call (800) BAC-5131, ext. 5386.

"Eventually I scratched his belly and you can do almost anything to him after that. He's very cute and very sweet."

Linda Waltmann

About 12:30 a.m. Thursday, Waltmann decided to investigate the source of the ruckus.

"I wasn't thinking it was going to be anything much, maybe a cat," Waltmann said.

But the "cat" trapped behind Waltmann's central air-conditioning unit had a snout and hooves. It wasn't a feline at all but a young Vietnamese pot-bellied pig.

"It was no wonder (the dogs) were having a fit out there," she said. "They thought they were going to have a ham dinner."

Instead, the dogs were restrained. Then Waltmann, owner of the Panache Too salon in Collinsville and a volunteer with the Animal Rescue and Relief Foundation of Southern Illinois, spent the next two hours coaxing the founding porcine into a pet carrier. Unaccustomed to pigs, Waltmann was wary of how the animal would react.

"We had a pet-a-thon until we were both comfortable because he was really scared and shaking," Waltmann said.

"Eventually I scratched his belly and you can do almost anything to him after that. He's very cute and very sweet."

The pig, dubbed "Babe," spent the rest of the night on a heated cot in Waltmann's garage. Waltmann said the pig is paper-trained and obviously was part of a household at some point.

Thursday afternoon, the pig was taken to a Collinsville veterinarian for care.

"He had some lacerations and just needed to be looked at," ARRF Chairman Shelly Blumberg said.

Unless the pig is claimed by an owner — who will be responsible for veterinary bills — it will be put up for adoption by ARRF.

mention salary.... this particular person doesn't need the salary. He's a millionaire."

Some made Frandsen's age an issue. Papa said, but he reminded people that Ronald Reagan became president while in his 70s.

The board approved Frandsen's appointment 19-8.

Frandsen, while making his acceptance speech, continued the theme of answering critics, particularly on the point of qualifications. A friend of his, he said, is today a multi-millionaire, with only a grade-school education.

"How many degrees does all Gates have? He's a college dropout," Frandsen said. "You see a job that needs doing, you go in and you give it your all. Those people surrounded themselves with good, educated people, which is what I am going to do."

He said he would draw on the experience of those who had been on the board for more than 10 years and would also hire former auditor Arthur "Pete" Fields as a consultant.

However, Frandsen surprised some by saying he would end a "payday lug" that takes $10 to $25 out of some county workers' paychecks. "It's illegal and immoral," he said, and challenged State's Attorney William Haine to investigate.

Papa himself was not without his critics, either. Board member Don Garrett of Madison spoke against re-electing Papa, and brought down the applause of the assembled supporters of the Madison County Nursing and Sheltered Care homes.

Citing the failure of the project to extend MetroLink to Madison County, the Mitchell incorporation issue and the closing of the county homes, Garrett urged Papa not be re-elected.

"And where are we now? Overseeing a county government that the people of Madison County have completely lost confidence in. And where is the chairman?" Garrett asked, then answered his own question.

Still busy trying to be a Democratic Party power broker instead of Madison County Chairman, still pandering to a few powerful politicians who provide him with fund-raising," he said.

"Madison County government has become the dumping ground for Democratic patronage," Garrett said, and said that because of corruption, the U.S. Justice Department should investigate.

He repeated his position that the chairman's position become elected by public vote, rather than by county board vote, which brought a round of applause from the audience.

Papa, however, chose to look at the tasks facing the new board, such as facilitating moderate population growth and economic opportunity and the loss of older industries.

He pointed to the near-completion of Interstate 255 to Godfrey, the success of the nationally-recognized Drug Court and extension of Health Department accessibility.

"We continue to enjoy good working relationships with the municipalities and townships," he said.

"It's my pleasure, it's my honor, to be your County Board chairman," he said. "I will work hard for you and for this board and the citizens of Madison County."

In other action Monday, Alan Dunstan was elected as the board's vice chairman, who fills in during the chairman's absence.

Judge Lawrence Keshner swore in the new board members, the majority of whom assumed the seats of retiring members.

Judy Kuhn of Highland replaced the retiring Harold Byers; Michael "Joe" Semanin of Maryville replaced Don Sonnenberg, defeated in the primary; Larry Trucan of Collinsville replaced the retiring Virgil Fletcher;

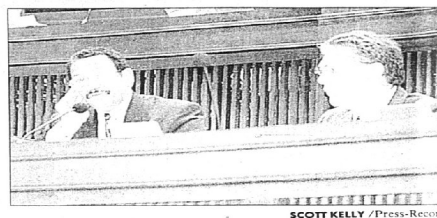

In addition, Ed Hagnauer of Granite City replaced Herbert "Junior" Milton, defeated in the primary; Steve Stobbs of Godfrey replaced the retiring Frank Vonnahmen; Wayne Bridgewater of Wood River replaced Anthony Pannic; and Michael "Doc" Holliday Sr. of Alton replaced Albert Charleson.

Alan Crider of Granite City was also sworn in as a new member, having won a term in his own right after being appointed to fill the unfinished term of Mac Warfield.

The makeup of the board is still largely the same, with 26 out of 26 seats held by Democrats.

Above, new Madison County Board members are sworn in at a special meeting Monday morning in Edwardsville, while at right, board member Don Garrett, left, attempts to persuade the County Board not to reappoint Rudy Papa as chairman. Looking on is new board member Ed Hagnauer of Granite City.

Bradford is a former state representative who resigned his elected office in 1997 for personal reasons. He now devotes his time to private practice and is an assistant state's attorney.

Alfred, Metz and Maher are also assistant state's attorneys. Mendelsohn, Berkley and Cain are attorneys in the Madison County Public Defender's Office.

Strawn served as a circuit judge many years ago.

The five attorneys who picked up petitions but chose not to submit them are:

Jonathan Isbell of Edwardsville.

Ray Stillwell of Godfrey.

Laura Andrews of Edwardsville.

Richard Rybak of Edwardsville.

Chris Hunter of Godfrey.

According to local and state sources, the eventual appointee will be decided by a vote of the nine circuit judges in the 3rd Judicial Circuit.

The winner must receive a majority — at least five votes — on the first ballot. If no one gets that many votes, a runoff will be held between the two highest vote-getters. The candidate with the most votes on the second ballot will be declared the winner.

The applicants will be certified this week by Chief Circuit

Judge Andreas Matoesian. He will, in turn, notify the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, which will send the ballots to the nine circuit judges.

Joe Tybor, press secretary for the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, said the ballots are due back 14 days from the day they are mailed. Joe A. Schiacci, director of the office, counts the ballots and notifies the chief judge of the results, Tybor said.

The appointment will be until June 30, when all 11 associate judges are up for retention.

The circuit judges will vote on whether to reappoint the 11 associates to additional four-year terms.

Associate judges are state employees, paid $111,106 annually, Tybor said. By comparison, a circuit judge is paid $119,226 a year.

effort," Callis said. "This could not be done without the best efforts of both government and private industry."

"It shows when they cooperate at the highest and best level what can be done for the quality of life for people who live in this area," he said.

Selph and Callis identified numerous people involved in the project's development, including Ruth Noeth of the HOME Foundation; Jaime Henderson of Henderson Associates Architects Inc.; Joe Juneau and Eric Williams of Juneau Associates; Ed Morrissey of Morrissey Construction Co.; John Vaseen, attorney; Jeff Dowd of Friduss, Lukee, Shiff and Co.; Skip Butler and Ryan Smith of Terra Properties; John Fruit and Greg Dix of Magna Bank (now Union Planters Bank); Annamaria Floener of Raymond James Financial; John Veronesi and staff of the Illinois Housing Development Authority; Jackie Bone and Pat Luchini of the Madison County Housing Authority; and Cheryl Jouett, Dorothy Hummel, John Dwyer and Bill Luchini of the Madison County Community Development.

Also playing a role were U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, State Reps. Steve Davis and Tom Holbrook; County Board members Homer Henke, Ray Romine and Bob Stille and former board member Junior Milton. Board Chairman Rudy Papa shared a few remarks on how the Vintage Gardens can serve as a model for the rest of the county. Public funds were combined with private sector money, he said, a good example of government and the private sector working well together.

"This affordable senior housing project, along with others in Troy, Godfrey and South Roxana, is proof that Madison County is committed to improving housing conditions for the elderly," Papa said.

"It is a prototype of which is possible in other areas of the county, and I encourage leaders here and today to duplicate and build similar projects for seniors in your own neighborhoods," he said.

He also said the project proves that Madison County has the skilled architects, engineers, contractors, management companies, service providers, banks and funding sources capable of producing affordable senior housing in the county.

"As chairman, one of my goals is to improve housing opportunities for seniors with modest incomes," he said, and mentioned that the county stands ready to help others with similar projects.

HOME Foundation, a locally-based nonprofit agency, works to expand affordable housing opportunities in the Granite City area.

BAC's Administration of Justice program is open to any student who is a high school graduate, earned a high school equivalency certificate or who is transferring from an accredited college or university.

BAC internship helps students

The Madison County Sheriff's Department is one of many participating agencies in Belleville Area College's Administration of Justice internship program.

Internships are one of the best ways to learn about law enforcement.

The AOJ program offers a two-year associate in applied science degree or a one-year certificate in Administration of Justice, which prepares students for careers at all levels of criminal justice.

Students are allowed to visit the real world of law enforcement through AOJ's internship program. Though it's an elective course, when a student chooses to enroll as an intern, he or she betters the odds of being hired, according to Harold Johnson, the program coordinator.

Not only does interning add value to a student's education, it also provides a screening opportunity for law enforcement agencies.

Mills nets honor for contributions

Chargers had 56-12-2 mark with player from Metro East aboard

Special to the Journal

Travis Mills was recognized this fall by the University of Alabama-Huntsville Athletic Department and Coach Carlos Peterson for completion of four years of soccer eligibility for the UAH Chargers soccer team.

Mills, a senior in mechanical engineering, earned varsity letters in each of his four years as a team member. He received an engraved team photo on the field at the final home game of the season.

Although primarily a defenseman, Mills stepped in as goal-scorer in his senior year, posting impressive stats — 11 goals, two assists and three game-winning goals.

"I am very proud of Travis," Peterson said. "He has matured so much over the years. His tenacity for finding the ball in attacking situations earned him 11 goals and honors as the second leading goal-scorer for the squad."

In Mills' career, the Chargers recorded the best four-year win-loss record in UAH's 25-year soccer history. The team's 56 wins, 12 losses and two ties earned them two Gulf South Conference Championships and a trip to the NCAA Tournament.

Additionally, the Chargers posted four straight victories over Alabama A & M in the annual Mayor's Cup Classic, a traditional rivalry between the Chargers and Bulldogs.

Mills earned honors as Gulf South Player of the Week in October 1997 and was named to the all-Conference Team twice.

During the 1997 season, the Chargers were nationally ranked, and Mills led the Gulf South Conference in goals. Mills completed his 42-game career with 21 goals, seven assists and five game-winning goals.

Mills graduated from Granite City High School in 1995 after playing for coach Gene Baker for four years. He is the son of Cynthia and Stuart Mills and the brother of Lisa and Scott. Grandparents are June and Bill Mills of Collinsville and Eleanor and Nick Todoroff of Granite City.

Mills plans to complete his degree at UAH and begin a career in mechanical engineering.

Travis Mills played four year of soccer for the University of Alabama-Huntsville.

Siegel saw success as SIUE sweeper

Freshman named to all-Region team

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Tasha Siegel admits she was not excited this summer when she learned she would be the starting sweeper for the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville women's soccer team.

During Siegel's brilliant four-year career with the Collinsville High girls soccer team, she set the program's single-season and career scoring marks as a forward.

Siegel ended up being a rock-solid sweeper for SIUE, as the Cougars allowed just 20 goals in 18 contests this season. She even got into the scoring act with five goals — two of which were game-winners.

Siegel joined senior forward Jaqueline Friedrich on the all-Central Region first team, as selected by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

Friedrich made the all-Central Region team for the third straight year. This season, she scored 17 goals and had nine assists. She finished her four-year career at SIUE as the Cougars all-time leader in goals, assists and points.

Senior defender Karen Tighe and junior midfielder Kristi Stedman were named to the second team.

Siegel was pleased to earn the accolades as a freshman, but she still misses playing on the front line.

"It was all right playing sweeper," Siegel said. "My true position is forward. I told him (SIUE coach Brian Korbmeseyer) that I would like to play forward now that Jaqueline is graduating. He told me he would try me there in the spring."

Siegel hopes she proved her value as a forward in stints this season. On restarts and corner kicks, Korbmeseyer allowed Siegel to move into the offensive flow.

"I was kind of surprised he let me (move up)," Siegel said. "I asked him to let me move forward. Brian is willing to try anything. It's not just his way or nothing. The second game I was up, I scored."

Siegel said if it doesn't work out next season, she will return to playing sweeper.

"I was a little nervous at first, stepping in as a freshman," Siegel said. "Sweeper is a difficult position to play. You have to control the backfield, direct people and tell people who to mark. I was afraid at first they would get mad at me because I was a freshman, but it was all right."

and got it, scored, and we fouled him to make it 50-48. It got to be kind of crazy circumstances for a while.

Chris Tindall and Mike Simpson really picked it up in the overtime. Chris had two or three steals and some important rebounds, and Mike did the same. Mike did the assist to Kevin at the end of regulation."

John VanBuskirk

"Chris Tindall and Mike Simpson really picked it up in the overtime. Chris had two or three steals and some important rebounds, and Mike did the same. Mike did the assist to Kevin at the end of regulation."

VanBuskirk said of his players. "They were tired, they were on a high that they didn't come down from. We talked about it, that Triad is a good basketball team, they have some good players. We talked about how it was going to be a struggle for us, and it was a struggle."

"Our guys are showing mental toughness right now. I hope it keeps up. I think you have to tell them that last year we were in this same position. I think at this point of the season last year, we were 5-2 and we won some games we were supposed to win and lost some games we were supposed to lose. That's not good enough."

"I think we have to recall last year and make sure we keep working as hard as we have been working and keep doing the things to improve. We are not good enough yet to compete in this conference. We have to improve because everyone else has."

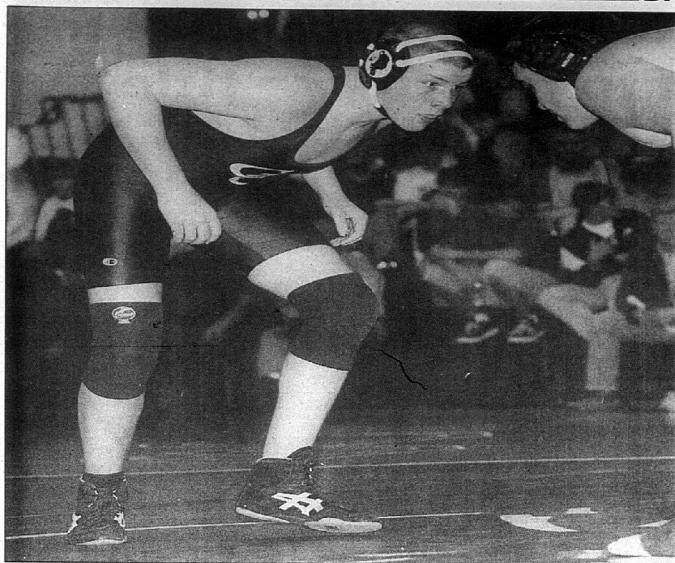

"We have three starters back from last year. Mike Simpson and Kevin Elliott played junior varsity and were on the varsity team last year. That makes a difference. I think their experience helps. Obviously they are all hard workers and they have improved, so if they keep doing that good things will happen. If we think we are better than we are then it's going to end up the way it was last year. We are going to try real hard to make sure it doesn't end up that way."

They started off in that direction on the right foot, beating last year's Southwestern Conference champions. "We have awfully good teams in our conference," VanBuskirk said. "When we start playing in our conference, that's awfully tough basketball, week-in and week-out. You can be a pretty good team and struggle in our conference, and still be a pretty good basketball team. We have to keep that thought. Keep working to try to get over the edge."

The conference comes calling again — in the form of Belleville West — at the Granite City gym this Saturday.

"Belleville West has a very good 3-point shooter in Neal O'Donnell," VanBuskirk said. "They have very, very good athletes. They have quickness, they have size, and they are much improved. They are going to be tough competition for us."

Craig Mooshegian, Granite City's heavyweight, won two of three matches Saturday as the Warriors hosted a quad meet.

shots early, but after we pulled them off and talked to them, they did a great job. I can't say enough about them."

Aaron got Lawary to commit her fifth foul, then had to sweat out the last three minutes with four fouls of her own.

"I was thinking that I better keep myself out of foul trouble," Aaron said. "But I still played hard. I didn't really worry about it that much."

"Debra Aaron did a nice job," Moad said. "She got in foul trouble and then played smart. She didn't commit the dumb foul and get out of the game, and we needed her."

The Warriors were justifiably excited by the win.

"That's a one-point loss to Belleville East and a two-point win over Belleville West," Moad said. "That's huge. The girls just played their hearts out. Not one individual tonight dominated. We've had some great individual performances this year, but this was just an all-around team effort."

That's a huge win going into Riverview Gardens (Mo.) and Aton Thursday and Friday.

Wrestling

Tedesco won by technical fall. Johnson also won by fall. Lofink won by forfeit at 125 and Davis won a 9-4 decision at 135.

Hale won by forfeit at 160 for the Warriors. Kirgan pinned Brad Jamison in 1:43. Grammer, who had lost his first match of the year Friday (8-6 against Edwardsville) against Joe Bevis, was pinned by Dustin Casey. Then at 215, Venne lost a 7-3 decision to Ken Musick. Finally at heavyweight, Mooshegian was pinned in 46 seconds by Bloomington's Seth Livingston.

The Warriors lost only three matches against Pekin, Peach, Triant, Tedesco, Johnson, Davis, Worthen, Narvaez, Hale, Kirgan, Venne and Mooshegian all posted wins for the Warriors. Lofink and Treake lost decisions while Grammer was pinned.

Sophomore leads second-year program to conference title

Former GCHS player notched 42 points for Dominican University

By Rick Brooms
Staff writer

COLLEGE SOCCER

In her second solid collegiate campaign, Dominican University midfielder Carrie Simpson helped take a second-year program to its first conference title.

The Stars finished 14-4-2 overall in 1998, including 8-1 in the Chicagoland Collegiate Athletic Conference.

Team captain Simpson, a product of Granite City High School, played a major role in the success of the young program, leading the team in scoring and earning CCAC all-Conference honors during each of her two seasons.

This season, the sophomore recorded a school record 14 goals and 14 assists for 42 points while finishing as one of four finalists for Conference Player of the Year.

She has been selected CCAC Player of the Week three times in her career, and her play has earned Team most valuable player honors for both 1997 and 1998.

Simpson also has been named a NAIA Honorable Mention All-American for 1998.

Simpson's success has not changed the way she performs on the field.

"Carrie is the ultimate team player," Dominican coach Ted Malek said. "When I talked to her about coming here and being part of a new program, I stressed to her that I was looking for a leader who would help me build a successful program."

Malek stuck to his right cord with what he said.

"He was really nice and he more or less talked me into going here," Simpson said. "He also offered my major (criminology)."

And, as they say in real estate, location is everything.

"It's 20 minutes from downtown Chicago," Simpson said. "It's really exciting. There is always something to do. It's very pretty."

"I'm happy I came here, it was a really good decision. I've learned to live on my own and do tons of things on my own. It has taught me to be responsible. I've made a lot of good friends, and the team is good."

The early success has Malek overjoyed.

"As a new program there may be times we hit some bumps in the road, and that can sometimes be hard to deal with," he said. "But to win a conference title in just our second year shows we have something special here."

"Carrie is a competitor who wants to win, and she is willing to work to do the best she can. That type of attitude just rubs off on the other players and makes all of the success we have achieved possible."

"I try to help the other people by talking to them and helping them through things," Simpson said. "It's a bunch of different roles you have to play with different people."

Simpson is a recent contribution to the world of college soccer bestowed by Granite City's legendary coach, Gene Baker.

"He helped me through a ton of things," Simpson said. "He wrote me a letter to give to schools. He taught me practically everything I know. If any of us ever had a problem, he was really easy to talk to. He was awesome. I couldn't have asked for a better coach."

In addition to her school-

Carrie Simpson, the sophomore captain of the Dominican University soccer team, earned Team MVP honors in 1997 and 1998. She also was named a NAIA Honorable Mention All-American this year.

work, Simpson helps Malek coach his other teams.

"When he can't be there, I will be," she said. "Our team has practice two times a week, except in the summer, when I will be going home. I think we will also be playing in a league this winter and spring."

And Malek thinks Simpson

has more to offer.

"Carrie has had a great career here so far, but I expect even more out of her the next two years," he said. "I think we have just scratched the surface on the success we can have here at Dominican, and I feel Carrie will continue to play a big part in that success."

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes people complain about the fact that our Courts appear to be too lenient with certain offenders. In some cases, a defendant will receive probation rather than being given jail time for a particular offense. Others are released early after being sentenced to a particular term.

What many fail to realize is that our prison system in the United States is extremely overcrowded. Whereas some would argue that every father who fails to pay child support and every repeat offender who drives under the influence of alcohol should be incarcerated, as a practical matter there often is not room in our jails to accommodate these offenders. One recent case will help illustrate the problem.

In one recent matter, a defendant charged with driving under the influence appeared before a judge. This was the individual's third offense. The judge sentenced him to a series of weekends in jail from Friday to Sunday for three months. When the defendant showed up to serve his time, the sheriff's department frequently explained that the jail was filled that weekend and that he would be given credit for the time served.

Another explanation for some of the plea bargaining that takes place in the criminal court system is an overcrowded docket with not enough prosecuting attorneys and too few courtrooms and judges. There are sometimes sixty to seventy defendants in a traffic court with only three assistant states attorneys present to handle the entire docket. Obviously, every case cannot be tried, and plea bargaining is necessary to move the docket.

What is the solution for people walking the streets who possibly should be serving time? In some cases, it should be noted that the criticism from the public with regard to sentencing is justified. Some judges, it can be argued, are too lenient. But most judges realize that there is only limited space in our prisons, and they know that this space must be reserved for hardened criminals. Until the public is willing to spend more tax dollars for more prisons, more prosecutors, and more judges, the problem will probably not be solved. With a population in America which is becoming increasingly more violent, our nation is going to need more prisons in the near future.

The Jenkins Home on 2257 Cleveland is one of the featured stops on the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society of Granite City's historic house tour. Below, Hopkins sits at a desk inside the Jenkins Home.

Ring in holidays with downtown house tour

Silver bells, silver bells, it's Christmas time in the city...
The Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society of Granite City wants to take you on an historical tour to some of Granite City's most beautiful homes, all decked out for Christmas.

The Silver Bells Christmas House Tour is scheduled for 3 to 8 p.m. Dec. 19, and includes eight historic homes and three churches, including Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, 20th and Delmar; First Presbyterian Church, 22nd and Delmar; and St. Peter's Evangelical United Church of Christ, 2103 Cleveland.

"It really is a page out of a Norman Rockwell painting," said Margaret Hopkins, chairman of the House Tour. "Many of these homes reflect the Victorian influence of the 1890s, with high ceilings, multiple fireplaces, ornately-carved mantels, beautiful stairways and woodwork and trim you can't even find today."
The homes are:

- The Jenkins Home — Julius and Matilda Rosenberg, owners of Leaders Department Store, built this home at 2257 Cleveland. Julius served as the second mayor of Granite City, from 1898-1903. Matilda gave birth to Pearl, the first girl born in Granite City.

- The 14-room home is part of the section of town called "Silk Stocking Row." In 1918, Dr. and Mrs. Reuss purchased the home. The Jenkins have lived there since 1980.

- The Petrillo Home — This home at 2230 Cleveland was built in 1912 as a duplex. The Petrillos purchased the home in 1994 and its extensive renovation has included the addition of period lighting fixtures, stained-glass windows, refinished floors and woodwork.

- The Unfried Home — Also built in 1912 was this home at 2226 Cleveland. The Bruch family purchased it in 1941, and later gave the home to their daughter and son-in-law, who raised 13 children there. The Unfrieds bought the home in 1991 and have rebuilt the kitchen, the upstairs bathroom and front porch, and have refinished the floors.

- The Bridges Home — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maile were the first occupants of this home at 2157 Cleveland, built just before 1910. Several families have lived in the home. The Bridges purchased it in 1996 and have made numerous improvements including an antique mantle piece.

- The Randall Home — This home at 2242 Delmar was built in 1910 with the beautiful wood trim and highly-detailed, open-style oak staircase that graces the home today.

- The Alexander Home — J. W. Eicher built this home at 2234 Delmar in 1910. Highlights include a beautiful, original carved entry door and newly-installed stained glass in the foyer.

- The Hopkins Home — This 1960 Princess Anne-style home at 2209 Delmar was built for Morgan and Gertrude LeMaster. Morgan LeMaster was an attorney and the mayor of Granite City from 1905-1908. Special features include a wrap-around porch and five sets of bay windows.

- The Mertz Home — This home at 2217 Grand is a charming bungalow originally built with only two rooms. Enlarged in 1970 and completely renovated in 1986, the home is a "must see" on the tour.

"Decked out for Christmas, they're a beautiful sight," Hopkins said.

The Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society of Granite City's tour is set for 3 to 8 p.m. Dec. 19.

Tickets cost $10, and 50 percent of the profits will support physician services and follow-up medical care for low-income patients through St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Koch Family Health Center. For more information, call 876-7715.

The four photos at right show details of some of the featured homes on the tour. Counter-clockwise, from top left, are a beautifully-decorated Christmas tree inside 2209 Delmar, the Hopkins Home; a close-up of the decorated front banister at 2234 Delmar, the Alexander Home; and the whole porch of the Alexander Home; and finally the ornate staircase at the Jenkins Home.

COMMUNITY HAPPENINGS

Granite City Park District

Think Spring! The Granite City Park District will sponsor a one-day trip to St. Louis Jan. 8 to visit the St. Louis Flower Show and the brand new Sci's Butterfly House.

The cost of the trip is $34 and includes motor coach fee and admission costs to both events.

The flower show, sponsored by the Junior League of St. Louis, is recognized as one of the top eight flower and garden shows in America. It will bring gardening to life in the middle of winter while enjoying the many floral displays, gardens and exhibits.

Various growers and horticulturists will be on hand to answer questions and explain the many varieties of plants and flowers that will be displayed in the many gardens and walkways set up in the St. Louis Convention Center.

There will be a marketplace of more than 100 garden related retailers from across the country with unique and unusual items for sale that includes everything from jewelry and shirts to rakes and plants.

Two hours will be spent at the flower show before going to the cafeteria for lunch and then on to the new Sophia Sachs Butterfly Center in Chesterfield, Mo.

The butterfly center includes from 60 to 100 different species of the world's most beautiful butterflies. The interior garden is planted with exotic, flowering, tropical plants which makes a perfect home for the butterflies.

A brief film will present an orientation to a preview of what to expect in the beautiful crystal building. The Madame Butterfly Shop is very upscale and offers books, unique gifts, toys, souvenirs and merchandise related to butterflies.

The group will return to Wilson Park by 5 p.m. with a sure feeling of spring, no matter what the weather.

The trip is now on sale at the Wilson Park office.

Christmas display at museum

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

Genuine antique dolls and reproductions made by volunteers will highlight the annual Madison County Historical Museum Christmas display at the museum, 715 N. Main St. in Edwardsville.

The display, "Recalling Christmas Past," runs through Dec. 31. It features such items as dolls with heads made of fine china and strings of cranberry tree decorations, put together over many hours by volunteers, said Anna Symanski, the museum's director.

"We have a beautiful, old doll stove and some delightful Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls made in 1963 by Barbara Ulfers of Alton," Symanski said. "The display is just beautiful."

She said volunteers Pat Mosby and Miriam Burns, both of Edwardsville, were instrumental in putting the display together.

Museum hours are Sundays from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and Wednesdays through Fridays, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The exhibit began with an open house Sunday, featuring Christmas music by harpist Nancy Small.

There is no admission charge.

Belleville Area College Foundation officials and other art advocates enthusiastically announced plans this week to develop an art gallery at the college.

For a number of years, Belleville Area College has collected paintings and other art objects and now has one of the finest collections of all community colleges in the country. Included are works by Picasso, Salvador Dali and Edouard Manet, plus numerous examples of pottery and sculpture, including "Ogoni" Marionettes from the Nigerian Ogoni Tribe, circa 1920.

Groundbreaking on the new building could begin in the spring.

Lafayette Square house tour Sunday

Long ago, the wealthiest St. Louisans settled in Lafayette Square. And the wealthiest of the wealthiest built their homes on Benton Place, Lafayette Square's most fashionable street.

Benton Place, the oldest remaining private street in the nation, is the focus of the 24th annual Lafayette Square Holiday Parlour Tour. It was named in honor of Missouri's U.S. senator, Thomas Hart Benton (1782-1858).

The Lafayette Square Restoration Committee sponsors the self-guided walking tour, scheduled from 1 to 7 p.m. Sunday. The tour begins at the Park House, 2023 Park Ave.

Of the 10 homes featured on this year's tour, seven are on Benton Place.

Show looks at Christmas past, present

By Alene Hill

It's Christmas in the early 1940s and a young soldier sings "I'll Be Home for Christmas" while his family waits in Collinsville for his arrival.

It's part of our Christmas heritage. It's also a scene from "Collinsville Christmas Through the Ages," a variety show that begins at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Miner's Theatre.

The show features more than 50 local actors and actresses, some as young as age 5, who appear in four short vignettes depicting Christmas at the turn of the century and three other periods — 1941, 1969 and finally 1998. The short plays were written by director Scot Morris and artistic director Marc Sovo.

"It's all woven together, the music and the short plays, with narration from the Christmas angels who must help us understand the meaning of Christmas," Morris said.

Tickets are $6 in advance and $8 at the door ($1 less for children) and may be purchased at the Collinsville

Dickens' classic takes Looking Glass stage

'A Christmas Carol' will be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday at theater in Lebanon

By Becky Garrison
Staff writer

Performers at the Looking Glass Playhouse in Lebanon will be having a "Dickens" of a good time this weekend.

Four performances of Charles Dickens' classic "A Christmas Carol" will be presented Friday through Sunday, with nightly performances at 7:30 p.m. and an additional performance on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Director Don Urban said Dickens has been credited by historians with doing more to revive the spirit of Christmas than any one in history.

The LGP production is unique in that it is performed on the very street that Charles Dickens walked in 1842.

"Dickens actually spent the night in Lebanon in 1842, staying at the Mermaid House," Urban said. "People to this day say that ideas for the 'Christmas Carol' came out of his trip to our region."

Urban said the cast of the play comes from all walks of life.

Bill Winslow, who has been playing the role for many years, will once again play the part of Ebenezer Scrooge.

"Winslow constantly tinkers with the script throughout the year, picking up a prop or an idea here and there," Urban said.

The role of Jacob Marley will be played by Ernie Lingo

Play's director of O'Fallon, who has also been cast in that role for several years.

The Ghost of Christmas Past will be played by Karren Sanborn, the Ghost of Christmas Present by Paul Biver and Mat Missey will be making his debut in the role of The Ghost of Christmas Future.

Urban said Missey's role requires a special talent.

"Sometimes that Ghost is tied to the ceiling or hung from a hook on the wall for nearly an hour and 45 minutes, until it is time to play the part," Urban said.

He added that the Future Ghost appears from a different location in the theater each year.

"One time we brought the ghost up out of the seats. We have had at least 50 different effects, having the ghost appear from almost every corner of the theater," Urban said.

The roles of Mr. and Mrs. Cratchit will be played by real life husband and wife, Dean and Vicki Durham.

"They are the classic storybook couple in real life," Urban said.

"Dean watched his wife perform in the role for years before becoming a part of the play."

Urban said he has done a lot of research on Dickens and his visit to the area. Dickens was not in the best position financially when he wrote the classic, but was possessed by it and locked himself in a room, writing for a couple of days, Urban said.

"He published the book out of his own pocket, and oversaw its publication. He came out with his book on Dec. 21 and it sold out instantly," Urban said.

"The rest is history."

After the play, the audience is invited to visit the numerous antique shops that line St. Louis Street and stroll to the Mermaid House where Dickens stayed in April 1842.

Tickets can be purchased for $4 and reservations can be made by contacting the LGP ticket office at 537-4962.

HOROSCOPE

Thursday, Dec. 10

Enjoy the countless benefits to Mercury's now direct transit. Much trivial confusion that culminated over the last few weeks is quickly cleared up. The Virgo moon facilitates the elimination of obligations that no longer have meaningful payoffs. People are attracted to learning, improvement and growth-oriented relationships.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 10). It's a huge year, financially speaking. Solutions to real-estate dilemmas and improved family relationships support you. Use imagination and creativity often through February, Scorpio and Cancer are lucky partners, teaching you how to harness emotions and use them to fuel exciting ambitions. Old friends and associates return to offer you fun and profit in July.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Don't argue money with a roommate, date or lover. It won't go in your favor. A generous parent may send a care package. New people you meet may include one who will be a serious love.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Avoid arguments with a good friend. The afternoon warns you to be responsible with money. Surprise expenses can be covered easily if you've been practical. You feel like taking what's left in your wallet and blowing it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You're getting enough recreational exercise, but are you eating right? Assignments are piled high. Just remain calm, and set up an organized schedule of study; then stick to it. New love will knock on your door soon.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Take a ride, go out into the country, or at least visit a park with a friend. It's important to keep a steady pace with all work, especially detailed reading. You may be called to rescue a friend from a sticky emotional spot.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The urge to goof off, however creatively, should be kept in check. Everyone's planning a celebration, but it is best for you to avoid alcohol now. If you work instead of party, you will be better off.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Pressure on the job is released through humor. Friends are not necessarily a good influence. Homesickness may strike. Write or call distant loved ones because they miss you, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You feel the pace of thought and action pick up. Flights of fantasy are interrupted by the

Berg's 'Very Bad Things' is one very weird film

The first clue was the production notes. There, at the bottom of the cast list, were two odd credits: "Bunker the Dog 4 Legs" was played by "Wrangler." And "Bunker the Dog 3 Legs" was portrayed by "Trooper."

That, it turned out, was the least of it. Because "Very Bad Things," a black comedy written and directed by Peter Berg, out-blacks most others of its ilk. In every way, it's one weird movie.

Trapped in the surreal, mundane-as-terrifying genre so favored by the Coen brothers ("Fargo," "Barton Fink") and the Farrelly brothers ("There's Something About Mary," "Dumb and Dumber"), "Very Bad Things" features some of the more unsettling film scenes of the year.

Kyle Fisher (Jon Favreau of "Swingers") is about to be married to the willowy Laura Garrety (Cameron Diaz), a California girl who's not as sweet and angelic as her smile suggests. "I am a creature like no other. I know that," she proclaims imperiously.

Her wedding is her life's pinnacle, and no detail will go unplanned; she even has tiny models of seats and guests so she can rearrange at will. Kyle, of course, must have a bachelor party. So his friends Charles, Boyd, Michael and Adam (Leland Orser, Christian Slater, Jeremy Piven and Daniel Stern) take him to Las Vegas — this despite Laura's admonition that, after their wedding, Kyle should "re-evaluate" some of his friendships.

She's a pain, but she may be right. During a cocaine- and alcohol-laden hotel-room party, male bonding goes horribly awry. Michael accidentally kills a stripper-prostitute during shower sex. Dismemberment ensues. And the fun, as it were, begins.

But they manage to get away with it and return home — to face Kyle's imminent wedding.

The secret begins to tear them asunder, though. Adam can't cope, and he takes it out on his wife (Jeanne Tripplehorn) and his sickly children. Boyd turns ever more malevolent and unhinged. Kyle is still agog at what's happened. Things fall apart. People die. And through it all, Laura refuses to postpone the wedding. "I will not be denied," she says.

"Very Bad Things" is not sure whether it's funny or serious, and that may be one of its strengths. It's so unsettling that it's both hilarious and terrifying at the same time. It shows how friendships break down in the face of adversity and how people react when situations unravel. It reveals the banality of murder — that it's not some mystical event but a simple, pathetic act.

In the end, "Very Bad Things" is a mean-spirited, ultimately gross movie that's worth a look — if you have a strong stomach.

"Very Bad Things," a Polygram film, is rated R for nudity and violence and gross situations.

— Associated Press

Clockwise from top: Daniel Stern, Cameron Diaz, Jon Favreau, Leland Orser, Jeremy Piven and Christian Slater star in "Very Bad Things."

First Night is seeking volunteers

By Kelly O'Brien Hugenot
Staff writer

Organizers of the First Night Saint Louis celebration are seeking 500 volunteers to help with the event.

Each volunteer will receive a First Night T-shirt, free parking and a First Night admission button.

First Night is an alcohol-free, family oriented New Year's Eve celebration in downtown St. Louis. Activities have an emphasis on the arts and are held indoors and outdoors.

Some of the venues this year will include America's Center, 701 Convention Plaza; St. Louis Public Library, 1301 Olive St.; Christ Church Cathedral, 1210 Locust St.; Cummel's Cafe and Coffeehouse, 1215 Washington Ave.; Hatshepsut Studio and Gallery, 1210 Washington; and Kiener Plaza, between Market and Chestnut streets west of Broadway.

Some of the activities will include music, dance, poetry readings, storytelling, magicians, puppeteers, jugglers, a giant maze and a fireworks display.

Volunteers may sign up for three different shifts: 4:30 to 8 p.m.; 7:30 to 10 p.m.; and 9:30 p.m. to midnight.

Call 588-0002 for more information.

Big Brothers raffle slated

This is your chance to win a yellow 1999 Prowler plus $7,500 in cash. Only 1,500 raffle certificates will be sold at $100 each in the Big Brothers Big Sisters Holiday Raffle. Other prizes include second prize — $5,000, third prize — 2,500 and 12 prizes of $200 each.

This unique car can be seen in the Chrysler Showroom at St. Clair Auto Mall in O'Fallon. It is one of very few yellow Prowlers made by Plymouth. Dealers around the country waited more than a year to receive just one Prowler.

An Early Bird Drawing for $1,000 will be held on Dec. 18. The drawing for the Prowler and cash prizes will be on Jan. 26, 1999 at St. Clair Auto Mall. Net proceeds to benefit children's services at Big Brothers Big Sisters of Southwestern Illinois.

For more information, call 398-3162.

Observance will mark changing of the seasons

Winter solstice sunrise to be observed Dec. 20 at Mounds

By Bethany Behrhorst
Staff writer

The changing of the seasons will be observed later this month at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site in Collinsville much the way it might have been marked by some of its original inhabitants.

The winter solstice sunrise observance is set for 7 a.m. Dec. 20 at the reconstructed Woodhenge, which is located a half-mile west of Monk's Mound.

"It's an opportunity to observe the winter solstice sunrise at the same place as the prehistoric Mississippi Indians did at Cahokia Mounds," said Bill Iseminger, director of public relations at the site.

Iseminger also is an archaeologist. He will present information about the historic site to those who attend the event and answer questions. He said Woodhenge was chosen as the spot for the observance because of its historical significance.

In the days of the Mississippian Indians, Iseminger said it is believed that the Woodhenge site would have been used as a giant sun calendar.

"That's where the sun priest would have been a thousand years ago," he said. "I'm there to give an explanation of how it works, how we discovered it and whatever else we know about Woodhenge as a sun calendar."

Iseminger will talk about the customs and traditions of the prehistoric Mississippi Indians. He said there will not be a reconstruction of their activities.

"We aren't Indians and we don't think that would be appropriate," he said.

If the hour of that activity is a little too early, come later in the day for a free performance by the Kahok Dancers. Dances are scheduled for 2 and 3 p.m. in the Interpretive Center auditorium.

The site's latest exhibit, "Mounds of the Eastern U.S.," will open Monday and continue through March. It will contain pictures, maps and information regarding more than 20 mound sites built by prehistoric Indian cultures.

During December, Cahokia Mounds will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

The museum's gift shop will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. to cater to the needs of holiday shoppers in search of unique gifts. The shop is filled with items made by Indians such as jewelry, pottery and kachina dolls. It also has reading materials on archaeology and Indian culture books for adults and children.

A donation of $2 for adults and $1 for children is suggested for visitors of the site. For more information, call 346-5160.

•Trivia

For this week's trivia quiz, the topic is the weather. (And how about this weather we've been having?)

1. According to the Guinness Book of World Records, the largest single snowstorm on record occurred in which state?
2. Which U.S. city has the lowest average mean temperature?
3. How is "Let It Snow, Let It Snow, Let It Snow" a holiday song?
4. What is the science of the weather called?
5. Which rock group had a hit with "Rock You Like a Hurricane" in 1984?
6. Within five degrees, what is the hottest shade temperature ever officially recorded on Earth?
7. What is the driest continent?
8. Which state has the largest number of significant and violent tornadoes per square mile?
9. The band Steve, Bob and Rich later gained some national attention under what name in the 1980s?
10. The heaviest hail on record fell on which country?

ANSWERS:

1. California. From Feb. 13-19, 1969, a total of 189 inches of snow fell at Mount Shasta Ski Bowl.
 2. International Falls, Minn., with an annual mean temperature of 36.5 degrees, according to Guinness.
 3. This is a trick question. The answer is it is not a holiday song, even though it is included on many Christmas albums. It's a tune about a guy putting the moves on a babe. There is nothing in it about Christmas, Hanukkah or Kwanzaa.
 4. Meteorology.
 5. The Scorpions.
 6. It is 136 degrees, set in 1922 in Libya.
 7. Antarctica. It is almost desert in terms of precipitation.
 8. Oklahoma.
 9. The Rainmakers. I always considered that to be a great name for a band. The group's big hit was "Let My People Go-Go."
 10. Bangladesh. Hailstones weighing as much as 2 1/4 pounds fell on that country on April 14, 1986. The storm killed 92 people.
- Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Entertainment and Trivia Show" from 8-11 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

Weather facts are surprising

As I write this column during the first week of December, the temperature has been in the 50s to 70s for almost a month and there has been no snow in sight.

Hallelujah!
It's funny how your perspective on the weather changes as you get older. When you were a kid, bad weather meant busting out the sleds and, possibly, staying home from school. Was there ever anything more exciting in your life than listening to the radio and hearing your school mentioned on the "closed due to weather" list? Weather reports calling for freezing rain especially caught our attention. We knew that it would take a pretty big snowfall for school to be shut down, but even a little freezing rain would give us a good shot at having the day off.

In my neighborhood, whenever it snowed, all the kids would go outside for a game of full-contact football. With everyone hobbled by the slick conditions, even a slow ox like me could catch the fast runners.

And, with the soft snow on the ground, it did not hurt when you were tackled. It was a blast.

I still get a bit of a thrill to see snow falling, but now I have other considerations than thinking of the fun I can have in the powder.

I don't want to fall down any steps. I don't want to shovel the driveway. I don't want to be stuck in a traffic jam or to get any dents in my car due to slick roads.

I would like to see a white Christmas, however. A light dusting of snow on Christmas Eve would be perfect. That would give us snow on the grass and trees, yet relatively clear streets.
